The Market Photo Workshop has over the last couple of years produced an exhibition that forms part of what was then the Newtown Women in Arts Festival. We are pleased to present another years' participation, a photography exhibition titled In Transit.

The exhibition comprises of work by students and past students of the Photo Workshop and focuses on the role women play in our society. This exhibition will focus on the role women play in society through investigating the complex negotiation of urban environments that women face every day. The time spent waiting to be able to cross the boundaries between urban and rural, suburban and township becomes an in between space that exists before and after these activities.

The relationship and dynamic of this movement in the city is a crucial one. Movement becomes the metaphor for the complex relationships and situations that structure the lives of women in South Africa today.

About the Market Photo Workshop:

The Market Photo Workshop was established in the late eighties to support aspiring photographers who were excluded from mainstream photography schools, and those in neglected and marginalized parts of our society. It has since expanded into a renowned photography resource centre, with many of its graduates working in the local media. Through comprehensive courses and outreach programmes and by engaging photographers, visual artists, educators, students and the broader community, the Photo Workshop plays an integral role in the training of informed and skilled witnesses to South African culture and society.
