

Women's Day Public Screening

Sunday 9 August 2009, 8 - 10pm
No. 1 Central Place, Newtown

© Robin Fortune, Bearing a load on Rondebult Road, 2007

The Market Photo Workshop, in association with the Newtown Improvement District, would like to invite you to attend a public screening of select photographic works in celebration of Women's day on Sunday 9 August 2009.

The screening will take place in the courtyard of No. 1 Central Place, Newtown, from 8 - 10pm.

The works being screened are all drawn from previous group exhibitions, curated by the Market Photo Workshop, which were exhibited as part of previous Newtown Women in Arts Festivals. Included in the screening are works from celebrated photographers and Photo Workshop alumni such as Nonsikelelo Veleko, Zanele Muholi, Sabelo Mlangeni, Tracy Edser, and Musa Nxumalo among others.

Works from exhibitions as varied as In Transit, is everybody comfortable?, face her, and Seeing Women are going to be screened. Each exhibition, approached thematically, contains work geared towards a curatorial approach that responds to issues around gender roles, women, and the social environments they occupy.

No. 1 Central Place has convenient underground parking available, and is home to a selection of restaurants, shops and offices such as Sofiatown, Cappello, Kaldi's Coffee, Xarra Books, and Kaya FM. Adjacent to the centre is the Newtown Park, which borders on venues such as the Bassline, the Dance Factory, and Sci Bono. No. 1 Central Place is situated on the corners of Henry Nxumalo and Jeppe streets, across from Mary Fitzgerald Square and MuseumAfrika.

The screening has been made possible by the Newtown Improvement District.