considering documentary
10 February - 2 April 2010
The Photo Workshop Gallery
considering documentary will open at The Photo Workshop Gallery on Wednesday 10 February 2010 at 6pm.

The exhibition explores the social, personal and generic dimensions of a selection of contemporary documentary photographs, video and audio works. The works included in this exhibition approach documentary photography in a refreshing and often confrontational manner, while at the same time, photographers demonstrate a curious and considered approach to their subjects. Consisting of works drawn entirely from the Market Photo Workshop's collection, the photographers included in the exhibition are all students and recent alumni of the institution.

considering documentary is the third in a series of exhibitions commemorating the 20th anniversary of the Market Photo Workshop.
